ARTSPACE

Uncertainty creates the need to change!

These last few months have caused much uncertainty for all of us and yet with the unpredictability we find that innovation and creativity are flourishing.

InSight Artspace has taken this time to reflect and rethink our main mission and align it with the changing dynamics in the world. By understanding what our clients need and the meaning of art, we have pivoted our strategy - to display more creative and virtual experiences for our clients to take part in. We have also changed our business approach to provide more accessible viewing and online purchasing through e-platforms such as Artsy and Kooness.

We have launched our "art and purposes" series - it will feature our artists' passion and commitment to helping others through their art, activism or emotional process.

Through our ongoing "living with art" series, we invite you to discover art in the home. Art has become an essential component of the modern home and can both center and define a room, lifting a space and creating joy from the quest of sourcing works from all around the world. We believe inspiring our viewers to visualize their "dream space" is important, especially as we look to spend more time in our homes with family and friends in the coming months.

If you need to fill a wall or complete a room, we are here to guide you through the process and to get the positive energy circulating in your home. We love to share our artist's journey, most importantly Shreya Mehta in this edition.

Stay safe, well, and creative.

Truly yours,

Catherine Testorf

LIVING WITH ART SERIES
SUMMER EDITION 2020
Introducing Shreya Mehta

Shreya Mehta is not only a talented female artist but also a humanitarian philanthropist . Discover Shreya Mehta's multifaceted mission during this interview and why she uses art as a springboard to help others.

Karma Blue I, 39 x 32 in (framed), indigo dye lines, waxed paper on canvas.

Shreya Mehta created her "Karma Blue" series after a meditation retreat.

The main entrance is the most important space in your home. It is where the energy will circulate throughout your whole house.

In her "Identity" series, Shreya Mehta explores her cultural heritage by creating layers of the word "identity" in her 3 native languages : English, Dutch and Gujarati.

SHREYA MEHTA is an award-winning artist who explores issues of identity, gender, power and spirituality in a variety of mediums and styles. Her art has been exhibited across the globe, from the Indian Consulate in New York to the private collection of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Born in India, raised and trained in Belgium, and now living and working in New York, Mehta brings a global perspective and a positive touch to all her endeavors. She creates both representational and abstract works thus defying categorization through constant, energetic change and an inquisitive nature.
